The Social Side of Washington

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington, D. C., June 4.—
"What is so rare as a day in June?"
Then, if ever, come merry days,
When Heaven tries earth if it be true,
And over it softly her warm ear lays."

June is everywhere the month of brides and of roses. Its first day at the capital was marked by three weddings as brilliant as military trappings, the regulation of the military and quantities of exquisite roses could make them. Miss Florence Edson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edson, was married at noon in St. Thomas Church to Lieutenant John William McKie, United States Army. The bride's sister, Miss Gertrude Wagner and Marie McKie, Miss Brown, the bridesmaids, Lieutenant Edmund T. Weiss, U. S. A., formerly of Washington, but now stationed at Fort Screven, Ga., was best man, and, like the bridegroom and ushers, was in the full uniform of his rank, a fact that added materially to the brilliant coloring of the bridal picture.

Miss Mary Remey, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. George C. Remey, and Miss Laura Annesley Stoenburg, daughter of the late Colonel J. M. Stoenburg, of the army, chose the same hour, 4:30, for their wedding. The former becoming a bride in St. Thomas Church, and the latter in St. Margaret's, of which Rev. Herbert Scott Smith is the rector. Miss Remey, like Miss Edson, is a talented musician, and a member of the famous Monday Morning Music Club, made a concord of sweet sounds, a feature of this nuptial ceremony. Miss Annesley, the bride's only attendant, Dr. John L. Nelson, U. S. N., was best man, and the ushers included Lieutenant Richard Wainwright, Jr., a bridegroom of little more than a month; Captain C. F. Williams, U. S. M. C., and the bride's brothers, William B. and John T. Remey. A reception to the bridal party, relatives and out-of-town guests, and a few intimate friends followed the church ceremony.

Three generations of army people were represented in the company assembled for the marriage of Miss Laura A. Stoenburg and Captain Charles Russell Mayo, Cavalry. Mr. S. A. Mayo, the bride's father, a gallant officer who lay down his life for his country during the Spanish-American War, and given undistinguished patronage. The program arranged by Miss Cryder, with the assistance of every diplomatic household in town, was an artistic affair. Senor Don Emilio Murillo, a Costa Rican official living in New York; Miss Marian McFall, soprano; William E. The Jr. tenor, and the Chaminade Sextet, of Washington, and Mrs. Roma Devonne Hempstead of New York and Virginia, as musical contributors.

As every important happening in the capitals of Europe is at once reflected in Washington, so the mourning for the late King of England has had a decidedly sobering effect upon official society. The period of formal mourning is being strictly observed by members of the foreign corps, and diplomats no longer mark their robes and coming with entertainments for their colleagues. Particularly is this true of the British embassy staff, which in another week will be transferred to summer quarters at Dublin. Where Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce have enjoyed the simple life for the two summers they have passed in this country.

The German embassy will be at Manchester-by-the-Sea, in charge of Count Willeke, who will arrive from a vacation trip to the fatherland just prior to the ambassador's sailing for Berlin to join his family, which has been abroad since April. Countess Wedel will return early in July and act as social chaperone to the embassy during her husband's regime as charge d'affaires.

The Mexican ambassador, Senor de la Barra, is now on a tour of the North shore in search of suitable headquarters for his embassy during the summer.

The Russian ambassador, who has taken small part in the social festivities of the season, owing to a troublesome attack of rheumatism, has decided upon Bar Harbor for his summer residence, and with Baroness Rosen their daughter, and official entourage will leave Washington about June 15.

The Swedish legation, which will soon be without a ministerial head, if official precedent is followed and Mr. de Lagercrantz given his passport for inducing his gift of prophecy in a recent speech in New York City, will establish summer headquarters at Bar Harbor.

Madame Ekengren, an American, formerly Miss Laura Jackson, of Washington, will be its social leader during the change.

The Japanese Ambassador and Baroness Uchida are finding their embassy in E Street, opposite beautiful Franklin Park, so agreeable these days that they have left the question of where to go for the summer unsettled until after the visit of the Emperor's cousin, Prince Fushimi, and his bride, whom they have now gone to New York to meet and escort to Washington. The royal pair, with a large entourage, will spend three days here, and then stop in Annapolis on their route to Boston. They will reach Tokyo on the Imperial Japanese ship Nippon Maru, June 21. This interesting itinerary will form the last stretch in their honeymoon trip abroad.

One of the prettiest card parties of this season was that Monday afternoon, given by Mrs. Dexter S. Meadows, in honor of Mrs. Robert M. Kent, of Richmond, who has been the guest of Mrs. Frederick Cannaday several weeks. Four tables were in play, and an elegant luncheon was served after the game.

The wedding of Miss Irene Meals, of this city, and Albert Dornin Pettyjohn, of Lynchburg, will be solemnized Wednesday evening in Great Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, Misses Virginia Gilchrist, of West Virginia; Ruby Smith and Martha Pettyjohn, of Lynchburg, are guests of Miss Meals, and will be attendants at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. John P. Pettyjohn, and Mr. and Mrs. Walker Pettyjohn, of Lynchburg, will arrive in the city Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hobbie, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hobbie, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. William W. Wofford and Wofford will attend the marriage Wednesday in Lynchburg, of Miss Virginia Rogers and John Hooe Wallace, of Maryland. A beautiful dance was given at Mountain Park skating rink Thursday night by the Roanoke German Club. About twenty couples participated. This was the first of the summer gormans.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton P. Huff, Colonel J. S. Browning, Mrs. C. E. Koombs, J. S. Browning, Jr., are on an automobile tour of Southwest Virginia. They left Wednesday morning, and will be absent two weeks.

Miss Mary Kirk will visit friends in Lynchburg this week.

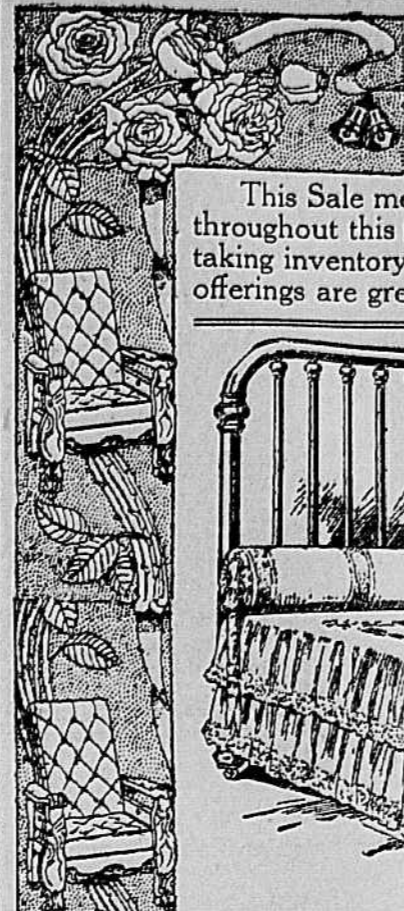

Mrs. A. N. Pitzer left Friday for Martinsville to attend the marriage of her niece, Miss Josephine Sultis, to Edward D. Henderson. The ceremony will take place Tuesday evening.

Mr. P. H. Tucker is visiting friends in Culpeper.

Miss Kathleen Clark has returned to her home in Radford, after attending Virginia College the past session.

Miss Mamie Hale, of New York, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. H. Darnall, returned home Friday night.

Miss Kathleen Clark entertained informally Monday evening in honor of her house guest, Miss Elanche Dobson.
